

Los Angeles

Population

- 4 million

Size

- Most populous in California

Weather

- Mediterranean climate

Language

- Spanish

Specialty Food

- Avacados, American

Los Angeles is a sprawling Southern California city and the center of the nations' film and television industry. The city is often billed as the “Creative Capital of the World”, because one in every six of its residents works in a creative industry and there are more artists, writers, filmmakers, actors, dancers and musicians living and working in Los Angeles than any other city at any time in history.

The city is founded in 1781 by a small group of Mexican settlers and after the Mexican-American war the state of California came under American control. After petroleum was discovered in areas around the city California became the country's largest oil producer, accounting for about one-quarter of the world petroleum output.

Places of Interest

Hollywood Walk of Fame – Take a stroll along the Hollywood Walk of Fame, where almost 2500 of the entertainment world's most illustrious names are immortalized in pink terrazzo and gold glittering.

Miracle Mile – LA Condesa neighbourhood that hosts a number of museums which provide rich insights into the history. The Broad Contemporary Art Museum, the latest addition to the area, is home to a dazzling selection of modern works.

Disney Land Park – This legendary theme park overflows with brilliant things to do, spreads over seven lands and the adjacent California Adventure