Denver is the capital and most populous of the U.S. state of Colorado. It is located in the South Platte River Valley on the western edge of High Plains. It is nicknamed as “mile High City” because of its official elevation is exactly one mile above sea level. It is one of the fastest growing cities and best place to live in U.S.

The first historical settlement was in the year 1858, later on in 1881 Denver was chosen as the permanent state capital of Colorado. Denver prospered as a service and supply center and attracted millionaires. Denver citizens were proud and thrilled when Horace Tabor the Leadville mining millionaire built an impressive business.

Denver has also been historically as the Queen City of the Plains and the Queen City of the West because of its important role in the agricultural industry of the High Plains region in the eastern Colorado and along the foothills of the Colorado Front Range.
